A: I solved my problem. It is easy. Just paste the below code in your HTML file. The invention relates to an image data processor for processing image data composed of a plurality of image data objects to be processed and a processing method for such an image data processor. JP Patent Kokai Publication JP-A-7-337319 describes an image processing apparatus including a data processing unit for processing image data and a display unit for displaying the processed image data. This image processing apparatus is intended to supply image data to a plurality of external image processing apparatus, receive image data from a plurality of external image processing apparatus and display the image data processed by each of the external image processing apparatus. However, this known image processing apparatus is provided with a display unit for displaying the processed image data, so that the external image processing apparatus connected to this image processing apparatus cannot receive image data processed by the image processing apparatus.Q: How to force puppeteer to load a file from disk? I need to download and upload files in an API. The problem is that when puppeteer downloads a file, he needs to generate a temporary file and only then he can download it. To upload files, I need to force puppeteer to store the file in the disk instead of generating a temporary file. This means that I need to force puppeteer to use a certain user-agent to download a file from my API, something like this:

const puppeteer = require('puppeteer'); (async () => { const browser = await puppeteer.launch(); const page = await browser.newPage(); await page.goto('', { waitUntil: 'networkidle0', }); await page.evaluate(() => { // I need to force puppeteer to use a particular user agent here // and then, use that user agent
